So yeah... So yesterday when I got home I was like "damn, I've got to go back again", and my husband who was fully aware of my frustration with my work schedule and my side projects were like "oh...that thing's going to happen at least once a week this year" and we went right back to Lowes on Wednesday. Well... I digress. So, the lowes lady had me pick something out and I went with a silver colored handle faucet with a slight teardrop shape. It wasn't really what I wanted, but it was on sale so I thought I would check it out. As I was looking around I noticed some copper colored handles... kinda something that I'm normally drawn too. When I went to the counter the guy just happened to have some near the same kind of faucet. So I picked those handles out and pretty much had him change it for me. I picked out the colors and all. He told me to pick a faucet since it was all my choice. So I picked out a really pretty silver teardrop and a copper teardrop and he switched those faucets out for me. I even had him get the wrong screws... or I think they were. It was either that or a gallon of screws since Lowes still hasn't been able to get their act together yet. Then the guy tells me "oh, and I've got some neosanding glue in a container for you to use." The container he gave me is a clear vial that is the size of the whole faucet body. It is more than enough to use on both handles. The faucet was $58.99 and then another $6.99 for the glue... I think it was, I wasn't really looking at the price so I can't remember. But the total was $65.98. I just needed to add the handle up and I was done. I had him also bring over some paper towel and some Neosanding Sealant so I could seal the faucet into the sink. I asked
